Discussion

IASLC Conference – Sydney, Australia Update

- Dr. Mulshine summarized highlights from the IASLC conference in Sydney, Australia (Oct 27-30).
- The group was comprised primarily of medical oncologists and imaging was not a focus.
 - As an interdisciplinary group, the hope is to incorporate biomarkers integrated around imaging to enhance the efficiency of screening.
 - Dr. Sullivan provided an overview of QIBA, its purpose and goals, and an introduction to Metrology.

Profile Update

- Dr. Gierada will send the latest version of the Profile to RSNA staff for distribution to the Writing Group members for their feedback and suggested edits: gieradad@mir.wustl.edu.
- Recent edits were made to sections 3.1.5, 3.2.1, and 3.2.2 – for consideration.

Strategic Planning Update

Mr. Buckler needs strategic plan details from the co-chairs as soon as possible for government reporting purposes.

Requested was a timeline with milestones, with specific details about:

- the duration of a public comment period,
- the amount of time needed to review and respond to public comments
- the amount of time needed to turn the Profile into a public document

Dr. Mulshine to follow up on this request with the Drs. Armato and Gierada.

Action items:

Dr. Gierada to forward latest version of Profile to RSNA staff for distribution to the writing group for review
Co-chairs to provide Mr. Buckler with strategic plan details for government reporting as soon as possible
Drs. Gierada and Mulshine to coordinate their presentations off-line re: the QIBA Working Meeting on Dec 4th...topic: "Case for CT Volumetry in CT Screening for Lung Cancer"
The next call is TBD, after the RSNA annual meeting.
