QIBA Wiki (meeting focus)

- A dedicated page for QIBA Profiles has been created
 - Currently organized by Profile Stages
 1. Stage one: version for public comment
 2. Stage two: publicly-reviewed version (consensus Profile)
 3. Stage three: technically-confirmed
 - Stage headings to be hyperlinked to Profile stage development description document found at: http://qibawiki.rsna.org/index.php/QIBA_Profile_Stages
 - QIBA Profiles page to be organized by modality once the number of Profiles increases
 - RSNA staff to oversee posting of Profiles
 - A link to the current Profile template to be added under “see also” section
 - “In process” drafts are currently available on individual BC pages
 - There was discussion on how sites and products claim conformance to a Profile
 - QIBA’s role in site conformance and a mechanism to carry this out still needed

- A participation page that explains ways to get involved with QIBA was created
- The Google sheet containing presentations/ publications is currently used internally among Scientific Liaisons; whether this will be posted to Wiki for public access is not yet clear
- There was discussion on when/how to link the QIBA wiki to the QIBA website and vice versa (address relationship between both types of content)
- The Wiki Use Cases Google sheet explores ways in which someone might use the QIBA wiki and looks at what their different information needs are & how they can be met
- RSNA staff to reach out to BC & TF leaders for user-feedback regarding what they may need revised on their wiki pages
